Have you ever noticed how much of the potato is wasted when you peel it? When you are peeling just a few potatoes for your dinner, this does not matter, of course. But just imagine what happens when potatoes are peeled in factories. Industrial potato peelers, in fact, waste an average of 15% of the potato. In the largest factories, billions of pounds of potatoes are processed every year. This means a loss of millions of dollars annually. Now, new technology may bring an end to that loss. A special kind of laser potato peeler has been developed to eliminate almost all of the waste. However, this new peeler is not for everyone. Only the largest manufacturers will be able to afford to buy the new machine. Each one costs over a million dollars!
